On Pastor's Appeal for
"Encouragement"By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
Associated Press Staff WriterTRENTON, N. J., Feb. 22.—Two of the state's star witnesses in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann were brought back into the case today for a rereading of their testi-mony. Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, of Hunterdon county, said one of the witnesses is Millard Whitely.
He refused to name the other.
Which is the Sourland mountaineer who testified he had seen Hauptmann in the vicinity of Col.
Charles A. Lindbergh's home a few days before the colonel's infant son was kidnapped, March 1, 1932.

Governor Orders Quiz

Hauck said Whitely and the other witness would be questioned by himself, Governor Harold G. Hoffman and C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of Hauptmann's counsel.Hauck said the governor ordered the questioning at a conference last night with Hauck and Fisher.
It was also reported that the governor again gave evidence he wanted prosecution officials to recall Dr. John F. Condon, the Jafsic of the ransom negotiations, now on a vacation in Panama.It was understood that state police would take the governor's order to Whitely.The examination may take place in the state capital or it may be held secretly elsewhere. Furnishing the basis for the questioning will be the trial record of the witness' tes-timony. From a reliable source it was learned the three at the conference last night discussed the possibility of perjury indictments against two of the state's witnesses, whose identities, however, were not disclosed.
Hauck said some time ago he would ask Hauck to prosecute certain witnesses for perjury.Hauck himself said last night he would take no action of such nature without conferring with Attorney General David T. Wilentz who is expected back from his Florida vacation about March 1.The governor has said he is convinced the Lindbergh kidnapping has now been completely solved, but has made no plans for a second review for Hauptmann. He was silent today on the appeal, circulated by the Rev. John Matthiesen, Hauptmann's spiritual adviser, to Lutheran ministers throughout the country, to give Hoffman "an encouraging word."Mr. Matthiesen, too, refrained from comment, insisting the matter had not been intended for publication.Mr. Matthiesen, in his letter, asked forgiveness of his fellow clergymen "if I do not at this time explain away all that circumstantial evidence so cunningly woven about Hauptmann.""That evidence may be there," he wrote, "but Hauptmann does not write to the picture."Hauptmann is under sentence to the week of March 30. No date for the execution has been set. Col.

Proposed Lake-River
Water Link

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Representatives of railroad labor are massing their forces for an attack against the proposed freight canal linking Lake Erie and the Ohio river.At a meeting of the railroad labor executives committee, R. V. Bellamy of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, was designated to lead the opposition against what was termed a $146,000,000 raid on the U. S. treasury for construction of the canal.Asserting the "steel interests at Youngstown" tried to get $37,000-00 of federal funds for the Beaver-Mahoning link in the proposed waterway last year, the railroad brother-hood's official publication said the same interests "are back with a more extensive program.""Rail labor officials who have investigated the project declare there is not the slightest necessity for the proposed canal," the announcement said "an infinitesimal number of workers would be given jobs in constructing this waterway, but when it was in operation large numbers of railroad employees would become jobless.""Youngstown steel companies with six trunk line railroads serving them have adequate transportation facilities. The only purpose the canal could serve would be to increase the steel companies' profits at the expense of crippling rail service for the general public."Restoration Urged

"Ding" Darling, noted cartoonist and conservationist, called on his fellows here to interest governors and legislators in a constructive program of replacing game and fish preserves."It is too late for conservation," he told the Ohio Sportsmen. "It's too late for restoration."Darling, president of the Wildlife Institute, blamed conservationists themselves for destruction of American fish, game, and birds."If you want to make this country into a golf desert," he said,
"continue the program of so-called conservation that has been going on for the last 100 years."Darling said he resigned as chief of the Federal Bureau of Biological Survey because he was unable to halt construction of a dam which would destroy a 505 square mile biological breeding ground at the

Fredericksburg, Va., to watch Walter Johnson, famous pitcher of former days, try to duplicate George Washington's legendary feat of throwing a silver dollar across the 373-foot expanse of the Rappahannock river.The experiment, which has attracted country-wide attention, was set for some time between 2:30 and 2:40 p. m., E. S. T.Representative Sol Bloom of New York, a student of history who cocks at the Washington dollar-tossing "myth," nevertheless donated a 1796 dollar to Johnson for the attempt and wished the pitcher luck.All over the country, citizens paid tribute to the father of his country.
Special exercises were arranged at Mount Vernon, Va., the Washing-where Washington is buried, was

In Visit To Temple
UniversityPHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—Declaring that "true education depends upon freedom in pursuit of truth," President Roosevelt said today:
"No group and no government can properly prescribe precisely what should constitute the body of knowledge with which true education is concerned."

Accepts Degree

In a Washington birthday speech in which he accepted an honorary degree of doctor of jurisprudence from Temple university, Mr. Roosevelt said the father of his country
"deeply appreciated the importance of education in a republic and the responsibility of the government to promote it."The chief executive asserted he was "proud to be the head of a government that has sought to make a substantial contribution to the cause of education, even in a period of economic distress." He noted that these efforts included appropriations of more than $400,000-000 to local communities for schools, colleges and library buildings, as well as projects for adult education and other purposes.Besides freedom of thought, he listed two other "qualities of a true education." One, he said, is "a sense of fair play among men,"—a realization of their "essential dependence on one another." The other is "a sense of equality among men when they are dealing with things of the mind.""Inequality may linger in the world of material things," he said,
"but great music, great literature and the wonders of science are and should be open to all."Triem Camp Plans

COSHOCTON, Feb. 22.—Health authorities said today the epidemic afflicting more than 1,800 Coshocton residents had been checked, and that those stricken were recovering from attacks of gastric enteritis, attributed to contamination of the city water supply.At Columbus Dr. F. E. Mahla, assistant state health director, said laboratory tests of water from Coshocton mains failed to show contamination. No evidence of typhoid bacillus was found, he said."Evidently the cause of this disease originated more than a week ago, and no doubt was in the water supply, but it has cleared up now," Dr. Mahla said.COSHOCTON, Feb. 22.—Cosho-cton residents drank beer, pop, ice cream sodas, and boiled water with more than 1,800 persons ill of an intestinal malady traced to water contaminated during a thaw.More persons fell ill hourly but the total remained almost unchanged. The affliction, diagnosed as gastro enteritis or intestinal influenza, runs its violent, painful course in about 24 hours and the patient recovers but remains weak.Awaiting a report on an official analysis of samples of the city water supply by the state health department, residents thronged beer parlors and soda fountains or boiled their water.Typhoid Possibility Seen Civic leaders admitted concern over a statement of Dr. W. B. Johnson of the health department after a preliminary analysis that presence of colon bacillus in the water indicated also possible presence of typhoid bacillus.Dusiness activity approached a standstill. Fewer and fewer employees showed up for work. All schools remained closed, with date for reopening indefinite. The Newark High school cancelled a basketball game with Coshocton last night.A. C. Pence, school superintendent, asserted the malady cost the schools $500 daily since Thursday under the state foundation school program which pays schools approximately 25 cents a day per pupil based on daily average attendance.Mayor W. L. Craig declared from his sick bed that he would ask council to press starting of a $164,000
public works administration project to construct a filtration plant at the new city water works.Russell Tidball, commander of the American Legion post, said the Legion would sponsor the project
"and see that it is carried through quickly."Ready for Inoculations Although physicians emphasized that they had found no indications yet of typhoid fever, the population was ready for general inoculations with extra quantities of typhoid toxin anti-toxin rushed here from Columbus.Wells drilled between the Tuscarawas and Walonding rivers are Coshocton's present water source.
B. V. Beaver, state health department engineer, said a sudden thaw after last week's cold spell had caused the rivers to rise and seep into the wells. Wells out of the reach of river seepage will supply the new water works.Charles Williams

OVER THE DAM

Wide disagreement exists on the amount of permission implied in the Wilson dam decision for further pursuance of the government's controversial power policy. On the face of the supreme court's opinion there is nothing which gives even inferential blessing to the kind of social experimentation illustrated by TVA. Yet, experimenters are claiming boldly that they have a clear track ahead. They will proceed at full speed.

The fact is they intend to go ahead whether the track is clear or not. They expected the supreme court to hinder them in the Wilson dam decision. When the court gave a narrow interpretation on the case and ignored the question of policy which was entailed they saw an opportunity to increase their momentum to a point where interference simply would not be practical.

It may be several years before the utilities industry can bring a case to the court which will require an opinion on the propriety of the TVA type of project. It will be even longer before the general public will be able to make a decision on the practical issue entailed in expenditure of millions of dollars for an experiment in social benefits.

By that time the money will have been spent, dams will have been completed, private investments diminished, populations shifted and the whole foundation of the experiment put into place. It will not matter what the supreme court might decide to say about the legality of actions which never can be recalled. Neither will it matter what the people may think about spending money which has been spent. Like gold devaluation, the action will be complete by the time it reaches the court. Likewise, the court may find nothing to do but admit there is nothing which could be done. Congress alone can determine the vital matter of public policy entailed before further exercise of the new deal power policy, and congress lies supine, unwilling to do anything which might scare away a single vote.

NOT SO LONG AGO

The great men of the United States still are comparatively recent. Within the time of men now living, the last of the contemporaries of George Washington died. The bond of the present with the nation's actual beginning still is strong.

Commemoration of Washington's birthday, though it has become a more formal occasion than Abraham Lincoln's birthday preceding it in February, still is an opportunity for patriotic introspection. What is the state of the union according to George Washington's standards?

Obviously, the great man had no complete set of political standards which can be employed 137 years after his death. He did have many personal standards which are timeless. Upon them his fame as a great man, a great statesman, a great general and a great patriot has been founded. By them other men may be measured.

He had a dignified confidence in his own judgment. He possessed extraordinary courage. He could be patient. He did not give in easily to opposition. He was self-reliant. He held a high conception of the meaning of confidence. Though he was not overbearing, he believed in the exercise of authority. He was kindly, but not sentimental.

He was, also, a revolutionist, a fact Americans neglect too often. He was hated heartily by many of the men whose names now are mentioned with his as founding fathers. He was a militarist whose leadership of the ragged Colonial army was questioned more often than it was praised during his days of trial. An aristocrat by birth and training, his bearing affronted many of his less cultured countrymen.

George Washington became the first president of the United States and promptly discovered what political bickering could be like in the new nation he had done so much to create. He had been doubtful many times of himself. As president he must have been doubtful of his struggling young country, too. It was to be many years before his enshrinement as the hero he now plainly deserves to be in comparison with the forgotten little men who would have liked to remodel him to conform more closely to their own pattern. Americans are strangely indifferent to greatness.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, February 23

Sunday's horoscope is not a particularly felicitous one, judging by the lunar transits, which are largely adverse. There may be delays, disappointments, doubts, perplexities, treacheries and loss.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year taxing their patience, perseverance, ingenuity and sagacity, as they may meet obstacles, uncertainties and other trying and testing situations.

A child born on this day may be fairly talented but disposed to be profound, studious and retiring, caring more for its interior life than outward success.

For Monday, February 24

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day when the energies and faculties may be found keyed to new heights of initiative and enterprise, with much progress made in the launching of fresh plans and propositions. These may be assured the substantial support of employers or those of influence, and may involve a change in the environs, contacts and even a recasting of such plans.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very lively and progressive year with all the forces and faculties under high pressure for attacking new projects. Employers and those in power will assist in such endeavors. Change may be involved, with fresh environs and contacts, especially in the private affiliations.

A child born on this day may be adventurous, enterprising, original and courageous. It may go far on the way to public success.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—Purely personal piffle: Most people think writing a column is as easy as broadcasting a Joe Louis fight. Nothing lifts my spirits like a heavy fog. Or gives an all gone feeling like constant sunshine. Just a Kasper Hauser. Grand story teller: Arthur McKeogh.

Made up description of a harbor twilight: "Like billows of gray gauze flung haphazardly against the sky." No man in modern literature interests me as a personality so much as Booth Tarkington. Runner up: Theodore Dreiser. Rudy Vallee is a sucker for Doberman-Pinschers.

Champs Elysees, 1936: The Claridge shuttered, 10 shops with bankrupt sale signs and two "Uniprix"—the French Woolworth stores. I've heard more vicious gossip in an hour in New York than in six weeks in Hollywood. First person I ever wrote a fan letter: George Arliss for his support of Mrs. Fiske in "The New York Idea."

And he replied: "Your epistolary bouquet has the fragrance of touching sincerity." My father never wore a hat save when going out of town. I like the William Saroyan Memorial Foundation idea: "For the Scientific Discouragement of People Who Want to be Writers."

No American city has the slappity bang of Chicago or the calm of Charleston, S. C. Jittery jabber: Verne Porter rushing into a tire repair shop for a spare left there: "Is my spye terrier ready?" Harry Evans can give more bounce to a party than almost any one of his day. Nothing looks so rich as a large drawer of monogrammed handkerchiefs. I read 412 books last year. But I'm what grandma calls a "skimmer." Is General Hugh Johnson doing a fade-out, or do I just imagine it? The most tragic parent: The mother of Dickie Loeb.

At an Elsa Maxwell dinner where they played four-word descriptions of celebrities 12 out of 14 correctly guessed "red hair, green eyes" as Katharine Hepburn. In our sitting room hung the Scotch couplet: "May the mouse n'er leave your pantry, Wi a tear-drip in its ee." From a letter I wrote my mother-in-law after two years in New York: "We want to stay on but the most I have made since the magazine blew up was $7 a week. More often nothing." Writer who wrote too little: James Huneker. Tip to Edmund Pearson: Why not a revamp of the famous Pearl Bryan headless murder in Ft. Thomas, Ky.? Two cops I knew fairly well have been pistolled by holdup bandits within a year. Needless, P. artlessly.

One of my dark horse choices for president: Henry Ford. Even Lenin said: "So long as Henry Ford lives Communism can get no foothold in America." Add engaging grinders: Will B. Johnston, the cartoonist. Twice I have rushed from parapets of skyscraper roofs for fear of vaulting over. (Voice: Try to make it next time!) Even F. D. R. and Major Bowes over the radio use the solecism "each and every." And why not? Vain hope: A dinner without a discussion of "a new world and a new consciousness." Most determined of the feminine chins: Doris Duke's. Crack investigating reporter: Sanford Stanton.

The tune "Chinatown" always tingles a vague happy memory of something I cannot recall distinctly. One of the flowery writers who usually has something interesting to say: Percy Hammond. Nearest I ever felt to the unknown: Walking on the dead leaves of centuries in the sundown hush of a Fontainebleau evening. And with not a word spoken a hard-boiled Texan with me flicked his eyes with a handkerchief now and then. Two books that should be read every ten years: Robinson Crusoe and Huckleberry Finn.

HOPE PRESENT
RATES ENOUGH

Congressional Tax Advisors Hit Optimistic Note

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Legislators hoping and praying that President Roosevelt will make the tax bill as small as possible in this campaign year took comfort today in optimistic notes struck by congressional tax advisors.

Noting a rise of $38,026,126 in ordinary internal revenue collections last month as compared with January, 1935, the advisors gave figures to show that with a further upswing in business the present tax rates would pour much more money into the treasury than it ever received in peak prosperity years.

One congressional tax expert said that present levies, applied to earnings approximating those of 1929, would produce $6,765,000,000 annually. Total revenue receipts recently have been running at the rate of about $4,000,000,000 a year, almost as much as the receipts in 1929 when the tax structure was different.

These figures were welcome to congress members who have been arguing that sizeable new tax levies are not necessary, despite the deficit, relief demands, congressional passage of the bonus, and the wiping out of AAA's processing taxes by the supreme court.

Despite the gain in ordinary internal revenues, the shutting-off of processing taxes led to a net drop of $10,600,000 in January, 1936, as compared to the previous January.

Most legislators expect Mr. Roosevelt to recommend taxes, perhaps totalling $500,000,000, to succeed the processing levies and to support the new farm program expected to pass the house this week. But many are hopeful that he will not go beyond that. There have been indications that he may send his recommendations to Capitol Hill next week.

His $10,000 Refused

In 1934 Ernst (Putzy) Hanfstaengl (above) Nazi press chief, offered Harvard a $10,000 scholarship which the university refused because of Germany's restriction of educational liberties. This year, Hitler's "foreign mouth" raised the ante to $10,000—but the answer, reported from Cambridge, is still, No.

GLAUCOMA
RECENTLY I HAVE received numerous inquiries about glaucoma. Some of my readers want to know if this is a serious disease. Others want to know how it can be cured. Since both his parents were afflicted with it, one young man asks if it is hereditary.

No doubt this is a subject of interest to many. First, let me say that if you are a victim of glaucoma it is imperative that you see a specialist at once. Place yourself in his care. Under competent medical supervision, the disease usually can be overcome, providing it is recognized fairly early. Neglect may lead to permanent blindness.

Glaucoma is a condition in which there is increased pressure within the eyeball. The remote cause for the changes in the eye which produce it is not definitely known. The symptoms come on suddenly and progressively. There is a gradual damaging effect upon the optic nerve. This leads to more or less impairment of sight.

Glaucoma is one of the most serious disorders of the eye. It is the cause of one-eighth of all cases of total blindness. It is a vital factor in many cases of partial blindness and blindness in one eye.

The sufferer first notices a dimness of vision. As a rule, this may be overlooked or thought to be due to faulty glasses or eyestrain. Later a cloud appears before the eyes and a halo like a rainbow is noticed around bright lights.

Sometimes the sufferer complains of constant headache, as well as a feeling of fullness in the eye. Usually the early attacks wear off quickly and the vision returns to normal for a time. There may be repeated attacks during the day with early but temporary improvement in vision. In such instances the vision is usually at its worst in the morning.

Suspicion of glaucoma should be aroused at the very onset of pain in the eye. In a typical case the pain is severe and at times almost unbearable. It radiates over the head to the ears and teeth and occasionally is confused with severe neuralgic pain.

STUDY BRITISH
COAL METHODS

U. S. Commission to Send Its Investigators To England

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Bituminous coal commission members looked to Great Britain today for guidance before deciding whether to recommend a program of production control and allocation for America's soft coal industry.

Under a mandate from congress to study the need for such a program, the commission has set aside $12,500 to send one or more of its members to England to investigate British methods of allocation and production control.

Commissioner C. E. Smith said it had not been decided definitely which of the five commissioners would make the trip. He said, however, commissioners Percy Tetlow of Columbus, Ohio, and George E. Aker of Los Angeles were being considered. Smith said the members selected would leave as soon as they could be spared from commission activities here.

Production control and allocation features in the original draft of the Guffey coal control act would have regulated the output of every soft coal mine in the country. Such opposition developed over these provisions, however, they were eliminated from the bill to insure its passage, the investigation was substituted for them.

Smith said although the commission was primarily interested in the British methods, the study might be extended to Germany, France and Russia.

The English, Smith said, have had a system of production control and allocation in operation for some time and "we want to learn at first hand how it works."

INVESTMENTS

Ten years ago a good friend of this institution had six thousand dollars in his savings account. In 1928 he took four thousand dollars out and bought some stocks. Today the stocks he bought are worthless. The whole four thousand dollars worth that he bought would not sell on the market for as much as the dividend he receives each six months on the two thousand dollars which he left in this institution. A savings account is still a good investment for the average man.

Disposal Plants Remove Pollution

DEFIANCE, Feb. 22. — State Health Director Walter Hartung said today construction of sewage disposal plants at Lima, Delphus, Van Wert, Hicksville and Findlay, and partial construction of another at Columbus Grove had added to a considerable degree the elimination of pollution from the Maumee and Auglaize rivers.

Dr. Hartung said in a letter to M. A. Collier, a co-worker with the county fish and game association in his efforts to clean up the streams, that experiments conducted probably would result in additional treatment works for sugar beet factories in Ohio to further the pollution elimination.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

WHEN VISITORS from abroad extol their industrial fairs, such as the Leipzig fair the British Industries exposition or the Lyons fair of France, we always refer them to Chicago's Merchandise Mart. There, on display the whole year round, is America's best in manufactured goods, a substantial exposition, even if it does lack the ballyhoo and other features that usually accompany trade fairs.

Of course, we are especially interested in the section devoted to furniture and aids to the home and, as the things that are shown there are always new, we like to bring you an account of them as soon as we can. So today we are giving you a summation of the new furniture just put on display and which will find its way into American homes later in the spring.

Salient Features

Emphasis on modernism, white and pastel-colored leathers, more general use of rare woods, wool and fur fabrics, and meticulous attention to comfort are the salient features of the new lines. They disclose that manufacturers expect the modern, Victorian and early American will dominate the interiors of homes being furnished this year.

We found that the reversion to the styles of furniture cherished by our forefathers provides an interesting contrast to the growing demand for the strictly modern. But from what we saw, it seemed that the latter type has been considerably modified this season, so that while it maintains its essential simplicity of line, it has shed much of the bizarre designs of later years.

An interesting trend is the use of modern woods and modern patterned wood fabrics in reproduction of antique pieces. One manufacturer is showing Louis XV and XVI sofas and chairs in bleached mahogany, upholstered in rough wool fabric. Another is introducing Chippendale sofas in natural-colored nutwood with mohair upholstery.

Nothing Bizarre

In addition to bleached mahogany, the woods destined to be used for modern furniture are Van Dyke mahogany, wherein the wood is treated to give it a light tone with grayish overcast, nutwood, acacia, aspen, walnut and avodire, a new South American importation. Soft tones that blend with the woods characterize the colors introduced into modern furniture upholstery with widespread use of beige, toast, warm grays, moss greens and seal browns.

Especially nice for the definitely decorated or high-style room is leather furniture, particularly that in white or moss green. Here again there is no sign of the bizarre that formerly marked this type of furniture.

Unit pieces doing double and even triple duty are planned to utilize efficiently the space of small apartments and houses. Wall

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING

Goshen Township Schools Financial Outlook Not Quite So Bright

DAMASCUS, Feb. 22.—The board of education of Goshen township during a discussion of the new state Foundation law at the board meeting here indicated that financial assistance is needed to keep Goshen township schools in operation.

Under provisions of the new school law finances previously received have been curtailed. It was explained. At the last election voters here turned down a three-mill levy for school operating expenses.

However, Goshen township trustees waived part of their millage in favor of the schools in order that participation in the new school law might be effected. Goshen township's tax rate of 1.03 mills is the lowest in recent years.

Sally Eilers, Eddie Cantor and William Frawley in "Strike Me Pink," a Samuel Goldwyn production, released through United Artists.

"Strike Me Pink," the new Eddie Cantor picture, heads an excellent week's program at the State. Cantor's musical extravaganza will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. "Barbary Coast," Miriam Hopkins' big hit, will be presented Wednesday and Thursday, and scheduled for Friday and Saturday is "Petrified Forest," with Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, a perfect finish for a week of good pictures.

Ethel Merman in Cast

Ethel Merman co-stars with Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," and with this singing team the show should prove very entertaining. Sally Eilers, Jack La Rue and Harry Parke, famous Greek dialectician, known over the radio as Parkyarkus, are also in the cast. Along with the featured stars are the beautiful "Goldwyn Girls," on their way to the fame enjoyed by the glorified girls of the Ziegfeld choruses.

The story is based on Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post story, "Dreamland." Harold Arlen and Lew Brown are responsible for the song hits, which include "The Lady Dances," "First You Have Me High Then You Have Me Low" and "Shake It Off." The settings and dancing routines are produced on a lavish scale and the highlights of the comedy are said to be found in a chase on a roller coaster and a balloon ascent with Eddie and Parkyarkus in the basket with a bunch of gangsters at the controls.

Story of Barbary Coast

"Barbary Coast," one of the ten best films of 1935, stars Miriam Hopkins, Edward Robinson and Joel McCrea and was adapted for the screen by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur. Miriam Hopkins plays a girl, young and beautiful, who enters the gold-rush-mad and famous wicked section of San Francisco, the Barbary coast. She becomes cold and hard, the mistress of Robinson, the powerful owner of a notorious cafe. Into this woman's life walks a clean-cut young chap, played by Joel McCrea, who falls in love with her.

Everyone is familiar with the play, "The Petrified Forest," written by Robert E. Sherwood, that was so successful on Broadway and road last year, with Leslie Howard in the leading role. Friday and Saturday the State offers Warner Bros. screen version of the famous play with Howard again playing the leading role and Bette Davis playing opposite him.

Complete services for tomorrow and announcements for the week, including Ash Wednesday services, are as follows:

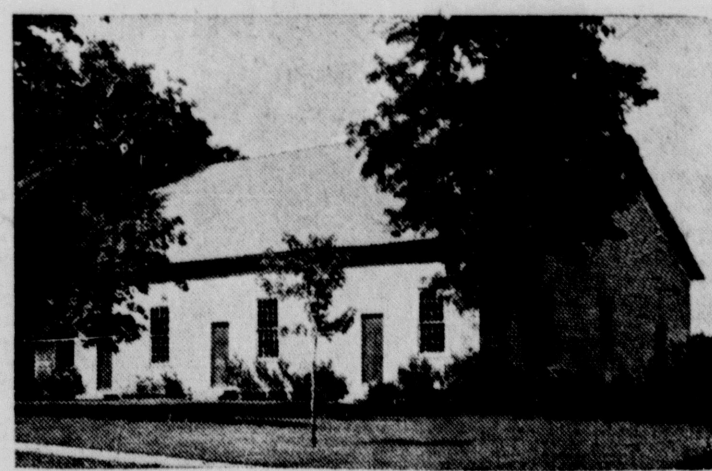

Sunday school 9:45 (Luke 8:26-37) Lewis Hirst, supt.

"Human life should be considered the most valuable of all of God's creations. Jesus was very insistent in placing a high value upon the human soul. Other things have value also, but the right proportion must always be maintained with the value of humanity. Property must never go above people in value. Selfishness may attempt to place human life in the same category as property, but such is neither proper nor right. Human welfare must precede financial profit. Human life is superior to material gains. These principles are now coming into their own as never before."

Morning worship 11:00. Sermon: "The Heart's Desire."

"One's desires tell more about a person than pages upon pages of biography. Goals and ideals shape the desire of the heart. Desire may be shaped only by the pull of earth or may be molded after the thoughts of heaven and the spiritual. It may take a life-time to realize a desire. How contented to find that it was worthwhile and noble! How empty will life be to come to the end of the road to find that the coveted desire is not worthy of accepting when reached. The desire of the heart pictures the individual."

Gurney Friends Yearly Meeting House

Five days out of each year, the Damascus Gurney Friends yearly meeting house is a scene of much activity for it is here, in this modest white frame building that missionaries from remote corners of the earth gather with several hundred people from Friends' churches in six states for the annual Ohio Yearly meeting of Friends.

Many missionaries from foreign nations, who are home on furloughs, attend the yearly meetings and give reports of the work being done in their respective territories. One of the most prominent missionaries at last year's meeting was Rev. Samuel Cheu, pastor of the Friends church in Luho, China, and a product of a missionary school there.

The meeting is not only for adult members of the church, but young people and children as well hold their own daily sessions and are entertained with various social events.

The meeting house, constructed expressly for the yearly event, is only used at the time the Ohio meeting is in progress. It is situated on an adjoining lot to the Damascus Gurney Friends church.

Founded in 1812, last year's Ohio Yearly meeting was the 123rd. From its early history the yearly meeting has progressed until it is now not only an important event for members of Friends churches in Ohio, but also those of other churches throughout the nation.

Re-elected at the last session, Ralph Coppock of Alliance is now serving his 24th term as presiding clerk of the yearly meeting. Another officer from this vicinity is Curtis A. Ellett of Beloit, who is treasurer. Coppock was given a unanimous vote of thanks by the meeting last year for his untiring efforts toward the improvement of the annual event.

At the yearly meetings each year, funds are established for conducting missionary work, committees are appointed to supervise the Friends institutions and to handle the business of the meeting, epistles from many other yearly and quarterly meetings in the United States, Canada and England are read and outstanding ministers of the church conduct daily services with special sermons for each.

The meeting house, constructed expressly for the yearly event, is only used at the time the Ohio meeting is in progress. It is situated on an adjoining lot to the Damascus Gurney Friends church.

Brothers Ring Church Chimes For 30 Years

NEWTON, Mass., Feb. 22.—Two brothers have been ringing chimes by hand at St. John's Methodist Episcopal church here for more than 30 years.

Wallace A. 58, and A. Lester Shepton, 49, who have been called the job for life, summon parishioners to church each Sunday morning and evening with the chimes.

All music must be transposed to the key of F because the bells are in a row of nine handles, similar to short wheelbarrow handles. The elder Shepton says that to chime, a special kind of stroke is necessary. One must learn the knack—a nappy stroke, so that the striker won't remain against the bell.

The brothers believe that much of the beauty of chimes lies in the touch of handling the rods and that ringing of the bells by hand is superior to that by electricity.

Williams has kept a faithful record of the sermons. He has a list of preachers' names, dates and texts. Of the sermons he has heard, 846 were from texts in the Old Testament and 2,232 from the New Testament. The most popular choice by preachers who preached from the Old Testament was the Book of Psalms, from which 227 texts were taken. Isaiah comes next with 124, and Genesis third with 65.

Preachers from the New Testament mainly favored St. John's Gospel, from which 369 texts were taken. St. Matthew comes second with 343, and St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews third with 166. Only one preacher preached from Obadiah, and only one from John's Second Epistle.

Columbiana Easily Downs Fairfield In Class B Tournament

Salineville Is Winner Over New Waterford In Other Tourney Contest At Salem High School Gymnasium Last Night

Columbiana High school's basketball team began their drive for the Class B championship of the northeastern Ohio district in a blaze of glory at Salem High school gymnasium last night when they ran roughshod over Fairfield to chalk up an impressive 46 to 14 victory in the preliminary round of the Columbiana county tournament.

In the other Class B contest of the preliminary round, Salineville High school cagers pulled out of an early slump to triumph over New Waterford, 23 to 12.

Columbiana and Salineville will meet in the final game of the tournament at the high school gym tonight. The winner will go to the district tournament at McDonald in two weeks. The two teams which were eliminated from the tourney last night, Fairfield and New Waterford, will play a consolation game tonight as a preliminary to the championship contest. The prelim is scheduled to start at 8.

Entering the tournament as the heavy favorite, Columbiana proved that it is worthy of all the praise given it by displaying such a superior brand of basketball that Fairfield was never offered a chance to take the lead during the contest.

Fairfield was limited to a single field goal in the first period while Columbiana had things all its own way in scoring 14 points.

The Columbiana lads continued their consistent scoring in the second frame and chalked up 12 points while Fairfield, putting forth its best efforts, could only tally six.

Assured of the victory, Columbiana took it easy during the last half of the contest although it did add 20 points to its 26 tally in the first half. Fairfield could only score six points in the last two periods.

New Waterford and Salineville played on even terms in the first period of their contest with both teams only connecting for one field goal. Salineville started on the road to victory in the second frame by scoring five points to Waterford's four and then came to life in the last half of the contest, to score 16 points while Waterford was held to six.

Unger of Columbiana, who tallied 15 points, and Bettis of Salineville, who scored nine, were outstanding during last night's contests.

Columbiana, with one of the leading Class B teams in the state, is expected to encounter but little difficulty from Salineville in the championship contest tonight.

Discovery Heads Field Of 15 In $100,000 Anita Race

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—Fifteen great thoroughbreds stamped around in their stalls today waiting for the bugle call to fame or just another dash around the track in the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap.

Mighty Discovery, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's 1935 champion, was the short price favorite as the gates of the big racing plant were thrown open for an expected crowd of 60,000 fans, including notables from the world of society, sports, screen and stage.

Other candidates with much backing were A. A. Baron's Top Row, the son of Peanuts, twice a victor over Discovery, and Time Supply, the F. A. Carraud horse, which ran third in the inaugural handicap last year.

With a stunning victory over Pompey's Pillar, Ariel Cross and Rosemont with Discovery fifth in the San Antonio handicap two weeks ago, Time Supply is a threatening favorite.

Back for another try this year is Azucar, the ex-steeplechaser who collected $108,400 for his owner, Fred M. Alger, Jr., by winning the big classic in 1935.

Completing the field are Whopper, Sinking Wood, Tick On, Rosemont, He Did, the $26,000 Santa Anita derby king, Ariel Cross, Pre-eminent, Thursday, Pompey's Pillar, Howard and Rickulus.

Discovery was handed top impost of 130 pounds, yet Johnny Bejshak said it wouldn't "bother him."

Azucar is down for 118.

PURDUE MEETS NORTHWESTERN

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—If Purdue's free-wheeling basketball team is to take a beating from a Big Ten foe this season, the job probably will have to be done by Northwestern tonight.

Leading the pack with eight straight victories, the Boilermakers have only four games left, and of the quartet of opponents, only Northwestern appears to have a chance of committing the biggest upset of the campaign, Purdue, if it gets by the Wildcats tonight, will finish up with Minnesota, Iowa and Michigan.

Neither the Gophers nor Iowa figure to cause the leaders trouble at Lafayette where their games will be played. Michigan rates only an outside chance of winning, even on its own floor, in the final night of the season, March 7.

Northwestern did well enough in losing to Purdue at Lafayette a week ago, to indicate that it will be just as tough, and perhaps a little tougher, tonight. The Wildcats went down 31 to 27, but only after saving a rally that had the Boilermakers hanging on at the finish.

Mrs. Crews Checks Patty Berg's Rush

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—Mrs. Maureen Orrunt Crews held the annual Palm Beach women's golf championship today along with the distinction of having checked Patty Berg's sensational victory rush.

Seeking her third straight triumph in Florida's winter tournaments, the 18-year-old Minneapolis schoolgirl bowed to the tall Miami stylist, 4 and 3, in yesterday's 18-hole final.

A streak of bad golf proved Patty's undoing—that and the fact Mrs. Crews, despite the water-soaked, slow course, was playing a stubborn, steady game.

ALTHOUSE FIVE LOSES TO FOOD TEAM 25 TO 23

Motors' Contest Is One of Five Played In Cage Carnival

Defending an undefeated record, the Crawford Foods cagers of Youngstown marked up their 13th consecutive victory of the season when they nosed out the Althouse Motors, 25 to 23, in one of the five contests played in the third of Salem's weekly basketball carnivals at the Memorial building last night.

Although the lead changed hands frequently during the contest, the Althouse quintet was on top of the score at the close of the first, second and third periods. The defeat is the second the Motors have suffered in three carnival games.

Underground Gas Explosions Cripple N. Y. City

National guardsmen were called to keep citizens of Utica, N. Y., off the streets following a series of underground explosions which occurred when leaking gas from downtown mains was ignited by a workman's sledge. Manhole covers were hurled high in the air, three citizens were seriously injured, and the entire city endangered by the subterranean gas fires.

WARNS WOMEN ABOUT DIETS

Professor Condemns Women who Starve Themselves to Get Thin

LONDON, Feb. 22 — "Absurd" girls who starve themselves were condemned by Prof. D. F. Fraser, Harris in a lecture at the New Health Summer school at Margate. "If the human nervous system is to be nourished," he said, "it must have food containing nitrogen and phosphorus. Those substances are found in so-called fat-making foods like milk and butter, and all the fashion-plates which have been published since the time of the Garden of Eden are not the slightest use in breaking down that law. "If girls are going to be sufficiently insane to starve themselves they are simply breaking the biological law, exactly as a criminal breaks the criminal law. The criminal may go to the gallows, and the absurd girl may, in some cases, die."

Railroader Killed

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22.—James M. Shay, 64, car foreman for the B. & O. railroad, was injured fatally late yesterday when he slipped on ice and was struck by an automobile driven, Coroner Frank M. Coppock said, by Robert Ratterman. Ratterman took Shay to a hospital where he died within a short time. Shay had been employed by the railroad for 50 years.

SANTA PAULA, Cal. — John Adams, 67-year-old resident in a relief camp, has been notified he is the possessor of the $3,000,000 estate of his uncle John M. Gross, Philadelphia, who died four years ago.

'Fights 'Whoopee Death' Charge

PICCARD SETS 20-MILE GOAL

Stratosphere Balloonist Seeks Sponsor and Huge Gas Bag

TOLEDO, Feb. 22.—Dr. Jean Piccard and his wife are pointing for another flight into the stratosphere. This time, they hope to ascend 20 miles.

The noted Swiss-American scientist has been promised a gondola for the flight, and as soon as sponsorship and financial means for constructing the balloon are assured, "we will be prepared and happy to take off," Dr. Piccard said in an interview here.

The Piccards completed a stratosphere flight in October, 1934, from Detroit, landing in a tree near Cadiz.
"Many of our data from that trip correspond with material gathered by Capt. Albert K. Stevens and Orville W. Anderson in their flight last fall," Dr. Piccard said. The two army officers set a stratosphere altitude mark by rising more than 14 miles in a flight originating in South Dakota's Black Hills.

There is a great scientific need for more stratosphere flights, Dr. Piccard believes. "The fields of the cosmic ray, spectroscopy, aerostatics and meteorology are calling for development," he said.

Approximately 20 miles is the practical limit to which the modern balloon may rise, for at that altitude "it begins to be dangerous," Dr. Piccard explained.
"Increasing altitudes require a proportionately larger balloon," the scientist said. "For every additional three miles, the bag must be doubled in volume. Now, strain on the balloon's walls increases as the balloon is made larger. With the materials for balloon construction which we have today, the tension limit is reached in the bag large enough to ascend 20 miles. Madame Piccard and I hope to go that high."
